

Welcome to STARTALK!

What is STARTALK?

STARTALK is a project funded by the National Security Agency and administered by the National Foreign Language Center at the University of Maryland.

STARTALK's mission is to promote the learning and teaching of critical languages in the United States through summer programs for students (K-16) and teachers.

How to apply to participate in a STARTALK Program: Students

In summer 2016, STARTALK will offer programs across the United States in 11 languages. Check out our listings online and apply for a STARTALK program today!

Sign up at: <https://startalk.umd.edu/public/find-a-summer-program> to receive notification when the application period opens.

How to apply for a grant to sponsor a STARTALK Program

The STARTALK grant application process will open in the fall of 2016 for the summer of 2017!

The National Foreign Language Center solicits proposals from schools, post-secondary institutions, school districts, state and regional educational agencies, language associations, and community-based organizations to participate in the STARTALK project. STARTALK proposal webinars provide applicants the opportunity to ask questions and get clarification about the proposal process and requirements.

For more information regarding the grant application and proposal process, view the recording:

<https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/recording/7833509445013047041>

Contact

For additional information: <https://startalk.umd.edu/public/>