

BECOME A FOREIGN SERVICE FACILITY MANAGER

Join the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations (OBO) in providing safe, secure, sustainable and functional facilities that support diplomacy throughout the world.

As a Facility Manager, you will deliver a wide range of building-related services at assigned posts abroad. You will also manage physical resources and direct asset management operations.

Your specialized experience will include managing large aspects of commercial/residential buildings and related systems equipment to include: engineering drawings and designs, safety functions and applicable building codes, manage and administer maintenance programs, manage financial aspects of contracts and supervise staff.

- Bachelor's degree with 3 yrs. or Master's degree with 2 yrs. specialized experience, or Bachelor's in Facility Management or Facility Engineering
- Worldwide availability required
- U.S. citizenship required
- Between 21-59 yrs. old to be appointed
- $54,069 - $79,402
- Paid housing and K-12 education for dependent children when serving overseas
- Training and career development
- Federal retirement benefits

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE

★ CAREERS REPRESENTING AMERICA ★

careers.state.gov

Visit careers.state.gov/work/opportunities/vacancy-announcements/fm to learn more and to apply.